Euroluce returns alongside the 2017 Salone Internazionale del Mobile, this year with over 39,000 m2 of exhibition space spanning four halls (9-11 and 13-15) , and with 454 top notch industry exhibitors, half of whom from outside Italy, confirming the event's status as the world's benchmark international lighting fair. This year, technological innovation and an architectural and design-led approach are the undisputed stars of the show.

The wide range of products on offer – unique in terms of variety and comprehensiveness – encompasses the latest new devices for lighting environments, innovations in lighting systems, light sources and software for light-related technology, as well as the use of original new eco-sustainable materials.

This year, Venetian-based Studio Italia Design will also showcase some innovative lighting fixtures at the Euroluce. With their focus on quality and design norms, the lighting fixtures created by Studio Italia Design carry the symbol of “Made in Italy.” They use delicate and selected materials to highlight craftsmanship.
